Measuring What Matters: A Literacy Assessment Map for Meaningful Learning

November 1

REGISTER HERE

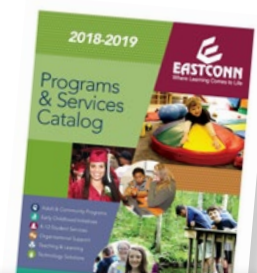

REGISTRATION CLOSING 10/25

Wondering what measurements matter for early literacy success? Many teachers are excited to implement Reading Workshop as a framework for teaching reading. As teachers move from traditional programs to workshop models, the question "How do we assess so we can guide our instruction?" becomes significant. Examine and review how to use formal and informal reading assessments to identify foundational skills that support emergent and early fluent readers. Learn how these assessment results can inform intervention through a deeper understanding of young readers.
