WRITING & READING WORKSHOP SUMMER INSTITUTE

for K-8 Teachers & Curriculum Leaders

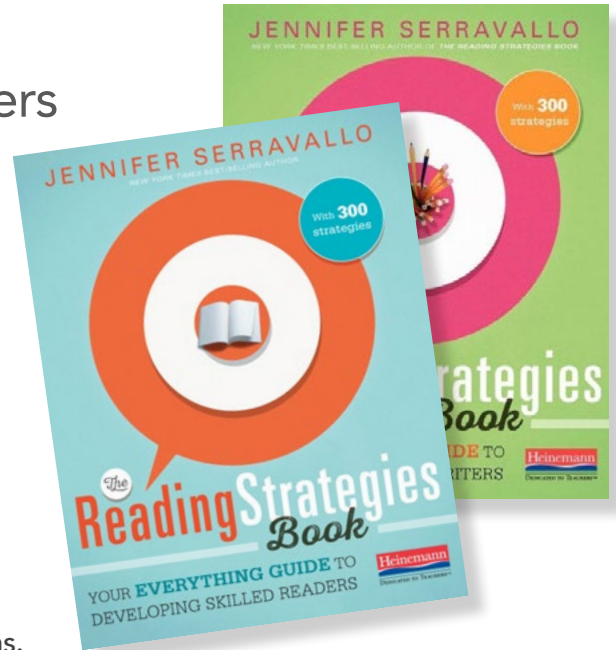

Are you looking for ways to help students become critical readers and dynamic writers and thinkers? Whether you are new or returning to the Writing & Reading Summer Institute, we will tailor our sessions to your needs and give you resources for planning and implementation.

NEW PARTICIPANTS WILL:

- Examine core workshop beliefs.
- Develop their vision of what a powerful workshop looks like.
- Learn and practice evidence-based instructional strategies.

RETURNING PARTICIPANTS WILL:

- Continue to “unpack” the units of study and refine mini-lessons.
- Learn methods to leverage the workshop structure through conferring and small-group work.
- Expand their repertoire of instructional strategies to lift the level of student work.

DAY SCHEDULE OPTIONS

DAY 1

Teachers College Writing and Reading Project consultant Kate Roberts will kick off the institute with sessions on:

- Developing skills-focused units to scaffold whole class and independent reading.
- DIY literacy tools for making your instruction stick.

DAY 2

EASTCONN literacy consultants Linda Kauffmann and Tiffany Smith will guide participants as they transfer a self-selected unit of study into a learning plan of sequenced mini-lessons to augment their curricular documents.

DAY 3 & 4

Hannah Schneewind will present Jennifer’s Serravallo’s reading and writing strategies. Serravallo is the author of the New York Times bestseller The Reading Strategies Book. Learn more at www.jenniferserravallo.com.
